

All on Account of a Lost Collar Button

LENGTH 360 FEET.

PRICE, $39.60.

Baxter Lost His Collar Button

The hunting for this so easily mislaid necessity makes him so nervous, that he gets a brain storm. It is almost impossible to describe all the crazy antics through which he goes. At last he lands in the dippy house; the doctor examines him, and finds that his wheels are out of order. They put him in a padded cell where he is still hunting for that lost collar button.

The Happy Poor, the husband, a carpenter, goes to work leaving wife and baby good-bye. Unkind Fate. Half an hour later he is brought home dead. Now come Hard Times. The wife cannot earn enough to support herself and baby. The Cruel Landlord has her thrown upon the street where she is

Hunting Shelter. Not being able to take care of the baby, she is Putting the Baby in a Home, and goes working in A Sweat Shop where she cannot earn enough to support herself and baby. She therefore brings the baby to a Foundling Home from where the baby is adopted by A Wealthy but Childless Pair. The mother is nearly frantic when she finds Her Child is Gone. She falls upon her knees praying "Mother Restore My Child." It is Fifteen Years later when she finds her lost child, which is once more happily united with her mother.

An Interrupted Outing

COPYRIGHT 1907

LENGTH, 347 feet

PRICE, $38.17

Two gentlemen call on their lady friends to take them for an outing. The four have a good time until two tramps interfere. They steal the gentlemen's clothing, but are discovered and given a good ducking.

The gentlemen being without clothing, borrow some wearing apparel from their lady friends, and thus march home.
